

TRAINING

Aspiring to the leadership team

Thursday 10 December 2009, Kenilworth
Thursday 21 January 2010, Leeds
Tuesday 22 June 2010, Oxford
Course fee: £280 +VAT

Target audience

All staff with aspirations to become the school leaders of the future. All middle leader who wish to learn more about leadership. Members of the emerging leaders network.

This course will look at what you need to know about leadership. It will investigate some of the ways in which good leaders work and what identifies them. It will begin with the premise that all successful middle leaders have the capacity to become equally successful senior leaders.

Much mythology abounds about the prerequisites of a 'good leader' and this course is designed to dispel some of these myths. It is anticipated that some of the course delegates will be convinced (if they were in doubt in the past) that they want to lead schools in the future.

The course will combine practical activities and information with some theory and research findings.

This is an active, fun event which centres on learning about yourself, and what motivates you and what you might do to prepare for promotion.

Take this course into your school/college.
